Convention Planning Handbook

Section 1 Forward

This book has been prepared as a guide in the planning and preparation for the Association's Annual Convention.

Planning a convention should not be an ordeal. Even though there is a lot of work involved, with the proper organization and discipline it can be fun and rewarding. A well-organized convention will be very successful and a lot of fun for those attending. Simple checklists will help insure that all the requirements for a well-planned convention are met.

More than one chapter, group or member can assist in the planning and preparation for a convention. The Annual Convention is held for the purpose of conducting the business of the Association. There is no requirement or expectations of "large monetary profits". Any convention that breaks even is considered a success.

Section 2
Convention Bid

Presenting the convention bid: once the decision is made to bid for a convention a formal letter should be prepared and signed by the proposed convention chairperson for presentation at the appropriate time to the convention body.

One year prior to the convention, the Chairperson will be expected to attend the Thursday meeting of the Board of Directors at the Annual Convention and submit the name of the hotel, the convention dates and the theme for their approval.

Bids are then presented at the Saturday business meeting. Turn your invitation/report over to the Recording Secretary to become a part of the convention minutes. If your committee has contacted and obtained letters of invitation from the hotel, Chamber of Commerce, Mayor or Governor, these may be read at the time of making the bid and given to the Recording Secretary to be included in the convention minutes.

Select a theme. A theme may be presented at the same time as your bid or you may develop a theme after the bid has been accepted. Decorations, printed programs, and the guest speaker can carry out the selected theme.

Section 3
Convention Committee

Form a Convention committee. A convention committee may be made up of members from one or more chapters and/or Members-at-Large (MAL). It is highly recommended that National Officers NOT serve on or Chair a convention or convention subcommittee.

Elect a Chairperson The first order of business after a site selection is made for the annual convention is for the hosting chapter(s) to elect a convention chair and co-chair or vice chair. The chairperson should be someone who is eager, willing and capable of planning, organizing, and able to delegate tasks. The Chairpersons name shall be submitted immediately upon election by the chapter to the National President and the National Executive Board for confirmation.

Chairperson. The year of the convention the Chairperson presents the “Welcome” speech at the opening business meeting. She will provide the 1st Vice President with a copy of her welcome well in advance of the convention so that a response can be prepared.

The Chairperson shall, after the convention books are closed, ascertain that all convention financial records including bank statements, canceled checks and all paid bills and receipts have been forwarded by the Convention Treasurer to the National Treasurer.

The year following the convention the Chairperson will give a final report of the convention at the Annual Convention. The report must be typed and a copy turned over to the National Recording Secretary for inclusion in the Convention Minutes. If unable to attend the convention, the final report should be submitted to the National Corresponding Secretary no later than 25 July. The National Corresponding Secretary will read the report at the business meeting.

Elect Co-Chair or Vice Chair. The person elected as Co-Chair or Vice Chair must be able to work closely with the Chair in delegating and guiding the rest of the committee(s).

Select a Treasurer. This position requires someone that is well organized and is responsible for the money collected for Registration, the Company Party, Pallas Athene Luncheon and the President’s Luncheon. The treasurer must keep accurate financial records! A financial statement must be turned over with the Chairperson’s convention report. She will need to work closely with the Registration Chair and the person or persons in charge of the events.

Treasurer’s responsibility. The treasurer is responsible for all monies pertaining to the Annual Convention. She shall open a bank account in the name of the “WACVA (insert year) CONVENTION FUND”. The Chairperson and the Treasurer shall be authorized to sign checks. Acceptable bookkeeping procedures shall be established to maintain record of all convention income and disbursements.

The following bookkeeping accounts are suggested but are not limiting:

Income Accounts

Advance Loan from National

Advance money from sponsoring Chapter if treasury permits

Convention Planning Handbook

Bank Interest

Donations (i.e.: cash, voucher, products, etc.)

Registration Fees (including proxy votes)

 Gift Shop

 Drawings/Raffle

 Hospitality Room

 Social Events

 Tours (if more than one you may want separate accounts)

Expense Accounts

 Credentials

 Memorial Service

 Refunds

 Registration

 Repayment - Advance loan from National

 Printing

 Social Events

 Tours

Information published pertaining to the yearbook, registration, social events, tours, etc. should specify that all checks be made payable to the WACVA (year) CONVENTION FUND.

The Treasurer shall require that all committee chairpersons transmit funds received, to the Treasurer for deposit, on a regular basis. A suggested transmittal form can be found in the Forms Section of this document. Standardization will facilitate the bookkeeping process and make it easier to research information on specific receipts, if necessary.

Members of chapters hosting a National Convention shall not be paid travel to attend any planning meetings using convention funds. Individual chapters have the choice of reimbursing their members from their chapter treasury.

Every effort should be made to expedite the closing of the financial records. When all accounts have been settled and records are complete, the Convention Treasurer and Convention Chairperson shall prepare the final financial statement to be submitted to the National Association within ninety (90) days after the close of convention. Distribution is as follows: National President & National Treasurer.

 National President

 Immediate Past National President (if she presided at your convention)

 National Treasurer

 Convention Chairperson of the next Annual Convention

Convention Planning Handbook

Chapter President (s) and individuals that participated in hosting the Annual Convention

Be sure all income and expenses are accounted for and detailed to the extent necessary. The difference between the two will give the NET PROFIT for the convention.

After the convention books are closed and the bank account zeroed out, all convention financial records including bank statements, canceled checks, paid bills and receipts must be forwarded to the National Treasurer. She must have these records as supporting documents when the National records are audited.

Committee Organization. The Convention Chair, Convention Treasurer and the Chairs of each subcommittee make up the Convention Committee. The subcommittees should include::

- Registration to include a subcommittee for social event registration
- Credentials
- Food services
- Tours and/or excursions
- First aid/emergency
- Hospitality - to include transportation
- Advertising and publicity
- Gift Shop.

Each subcommittee Chair should prepare a schedule for their respective areas. See checklist section 7 for detailed information.

Make Detailed Lists of Goals. At the first committee meeting, make note of everything that will need to be done, and set up a timetable for doing it. Allow plenty of time.

Items typically included, but not limited to include:

- Establish a set of objectives
- Develop a theme
- Select date
- Find a location (RV parking close to hotel)
- Accommodations (Hotel: meeting rooms, banquet rooms, complimentary rooms, etc.)
- Logistics (travel requirements, airport, shuttle, etc.)
- Present bid at Annual Convention (one (1) to two (2) years in advance)
- Publicity
- Communications
- Registration
- Credentials

Convention Planning Handbook

- Gift Shop
- Speaker
- Convention Report

Daily schedule of activities:

- Wednesday
 - Pre Convention Executive Board Meeting
- Thursday
 - Board of Directors Meeting
 - Honor Guard Meeting
- Friday
 - 1st Vice President's Workshop

 - Social Hour
 - Company Party
- Saturday
 - Business Meeting
 - Pallas Athene Luncheon
- Sunday

Develop a milestone schedule to include each major step:

- Planning committee meetings
- Develop a specification sheet (Time line—sequence of events & committee responsibilities)
- Preparation of mailing lists
- Detailed Budget
- Printing requirements
- Letters of invitation
- Confirmation letters to speaker
- Conference information packages
- Scheduling photographer (if planned)

Convention Planning Handbook

- Handicapped requirements
- Planning of meals and refreshments

Monthly meeting should be held at first, then more often as it gets closer to convention time. Accurate records must be kept about everything that has been discussed and who has volunteered to do what.

Bonding: Notify the National Treasurer to ensure bond coverage. National is responsible for obtaining and paying for the bond covering the Convention Chair and the Convention Treasurer. (Standing Rules 4)

Develop a Budget. After the Board of Directors accepts the convention bid an application may be made by the convention chair requesting a one thousand dollar ($1000.00) advance. The National Treasurer will present the Convention Treasurer with this advance if the Treasury warrants. This advance will be available not earlier than 18 months prior to the annual convention and is to be repaid not later than 30 days after the convention. Many chapters have asked for the loan. Don't be reluctant to ask if you need the money. Consider the amount of money that must be spent mailing out the initial information packages and deposits that may be required before the registration money starts to come in. Remember to keep costs at a minimum for your attendees.

National determines the registration fee.

Convention Net Profit Shared by National and the Hostess Chapter(s). Net Profit/Loss shall be shared on a 50% - 50% split with 50% of the convention net profit being forwarded to the National Treasury and 50% of the convention net profit being retained by the hostess chapter(s). If several chapters are involved the 50% is divided evenly between them. Because we are a non-profit organization individuals may not profit from an Annual Convention Members at Large will turn over 100% of the profits.

To close the convention fund account , a check equal to fifty percent (50%) of the net profit to National and fifty (50%) percent of the net profit to the hosting chapter, or divided between the hosting chapters.

Choose a Date. Avoid all holidays (for all religions). The conventions are usually held in late August or early September. Keep the weather and temperatures in mind when choosing a date. Costs may also be less in off tourist seasons in some areas.

Publicize! This is extremely important. You must begin publicizing as soon as possible. Start promoting your event at the convention at which your bid is accepted. Place registration form, tour information, emergency form and all pertinent information in the February/March issue of The Channel. Registration form; Social Event Reservation Form and information; Emergency Information Form; and Hotel Registration Form shall be published in the April/May issue of The Channel. Publish this information only once so make sure that it is correct when it is submitted to The Channel Editor. Short articles that will spark interest in the convention and encourage attendance may be placed in other issues of The Channel.

The Publicity Committee is responsible for all convention publicity. They should try to arrange press conferences for the National President and prominent guests. Use both printed media and television coverage for publicity if possible. Some members have great stories to tell. Get the information about our Association and the Annual Convention out to the public. This is a perfect time to attract new members.

Convention Planning Handbook

The only restriction to the media is the Sunday morning Memorial Service. All forms of photography are prohibited during the service.

Publications you may want to consider are:

The Channel

Local Radio and Television Stations

Local Newspapers

The Army Times

The Stars & Stripes

Magazines of other veterans' organizations

Airline Magazines

Inquire through the VA as to the availability of the "The Directory of Veterans Service Organizations". If available, the publication has a listing of organizations and their publications that might be useful.

Select a speaker for the Pallas Athene Luncheon. Use care in selecting a speaker. Let them know we are a non-profit organization. They may charge you less, or even waive their fee. Usually the speaker for this event is willing to speak at no cost to the Association. To avoid paying transportation and housing it is best to look for a local speaker or a member of the Association that will be attending the convention. Put all arrangements in writing to avoid cancellations, and make alternate plans for no-show speakers just in case. Obtain biographies for main speakers for publicity.

Arrange for Tours to Local Points of Interest. Do not schedule a trip that will conflict with a business meeting. Keep in close contact with the company you are setting the tours up with. Constantly update attendance figures. As soon as you finalize where you want to go, call the tour arranger and see what kind of deadlines they have. Make sure all costs are stated up front. Get contracts in writing! See section on Tours.

Arrange Meals. The amount paid to the hotel will include food cost, gratuity and any applicable tax. The three major social events including meals are Friday's Company Party, Saturday's Pallas Athene Luncheon, and Sunday's President's Luncheon.

Religious and dietary restrictions must be a consideration when choosing a menu. To accomplish this ask food service if they are able to serve at least two menu items. A final meal count is usually needed 48 – 72 hours in advance, but this can vary. Be sure to know your deadlines. There is usually a charge associated with coffee, donuts, etc., that are put out for coffee breaks or to stock the Hospitality Suite, so find out exactly what the cost will be before deciding to offer these extras. Some places will let you bring in your own food, but others will not, so be sure to check it out. If you are allowed to bring food in you can always find members willing to bake or donate. Make sure all costs are stated up front including gratuities. Get contracts in writing.

Sale of Merchandise at Convention is controlled. Sales of goods at the Annual Convention by chapters for chapter profit are not allowed. The rationale for this decision is that it is a National Convention and our National Emblem Sales and Gift Shop should have the exclusive right to raise funds for the Convention and National.

Convention Planning Handbook

Gift Shop: The Gift Shop is an extension of National Emblem Sales. The Gift Shop is not a requirement. To have a Gift Shop is at the discretion of the hosting chapter(s) or Members-at-Large when they host a convention. All expenses incurred should be paid from the profit derived from the Gift Shop.

Local Chapter members or members hosting the Convention as well as local businesses donate to the Gift Shop.

Space in the Gift Shop must be provided for a display of National Emblems Sales merchandise located near the main flow of traffic.

Hours should be set to accommodate the convention attendees. Publish the hours of operation in the convention booklet and display them on the bulletin boards. Suggested hours are:

Wednesday	2:00 PM to 8:00 PM
Thursday	8:00 AM to 8:00 PM
Friday	8:00 AM to 4:00 PM
Saturday	8:00 AM to 11:00 AM
Sunday	Only if stock warrants opening and then dependent on the time the room must be vacated

Drawing or raffle: Drawings or raffles are a good moneymaker if local merchants and Association members or Chapters donate all the items. It is essential that the Convention Committee check with proper local and state agencies with respect to any restrictions on the sale of merchandise and conducting raffles. We must abide by the laws of the state in which the Annual Convention is held. Do not submit any information pertaining to games of chance to The Channel. It is a violation of the Postal Lottery Laws.

Section 4
Location & Accommodations

Choose a Location. Discuss possibilities, make a list of what is important, and begin to narrow it down. Important points to consider are the facilities. Find a location where you would have a number of complimentary rooms, based on the number of reserved rooms. Negotiate a contract and get your agreements in writing!

Hotel. Get prices (single and double rooms), special convention rates, and registration deadlines. Estimate the number of attendees by obtaining actual attendance figures from the previous conventions. Make sure a sufficient number of rooms are reserved in a block. Obtain the information from each hotel being considered IN WRITING. Make sure the attendees know they must tell the hotel that they are reserving a room for the Women's Army Corps Veterans' Association Annual Convention and want one of the rooms that have been blocked. Get your contract in writing.

Get everything in writing. It is essential that you get all commitments by the hotel in writing. This includes space commitments, reservation deadlines, price quotes for rooms and meals, equipment to be provided, color of table linens, coffee breaks, etc.

The hotel utilized for our annual conventions must be of the type and size that can accommodate all members in attendance in rooms at one established rate, unless the member desires otherwise. A concierge lounge offering suites and complimentary continental breakfasts, cocktails and hors d'oeuvres in the evening are often requested by attendees. Make sure there are handicapped rooms that are wheelchair accessible with walk-in showers or bathtubs with tub chairs available.

In addition to ample meeting rooms, banquet rooms for sit-down meals rooms for the Memorial service, 1st Vice President's Workshop, Pre and Post Executive Board meetings, Hospitality Suite, and the Gift Shop and Emblem Sales are also required.

How many complimentary suites in addition to the one for the National President?

How many days before and after the convention dates will they honor the agreed upon convention room rate?

Arrange for luggage storage for members departing on Sunday that have to check out of their rooms prior to the close of the convention.

With the proper approach it is possible to get a great many things, such as audio and visual equipment, without charge. TRY!

Other issues to consider are parking (is there a cost and if so how much). Check into the walking distance or available transportation to and from nearby restaurants, and points of interest.

Section 5
Travel

Transportation: Check with airlines for group specials and notify the membership via The Channel. If the hotel is some distance from the airport, train or bus station negotiate with the hotel or other agency for courtesy van(s), shuttle service, or other transportation. If the hotel does not provide this service, attempt to arrange with a local company setting a reasonable fee for their service..

If someone from the Hospitality Committee does not transport the National President and Shuttle Service is not available the National President's cost of transportation to and from the airport shall be paid by National.

Section 6
Credentials

Credentials. The responsibilities of the Credentials Chairperson include the following actions:

Verify with the National Treasurer the eligibility of all delegates, alternates, proxies and other officials as soon as certification is received.

If a member is determined to be ineligible to serve in a voting capacity notify the pertinent chapter or for a member-at-large immediately (MAL) notify the National Second Vice-President.

Provide the Registration Committee, National Officers and Committee Chairpersons information and rosters required for them to perform their duties.

Check voting registrants in at the door at each business meeting for the purpose of certifying a quorum.

The President will request a daily report at the beginning of each meeting to assure a quorum has been established.

Provide the daily credentials report to the Recording Secretary for inclusion in the Convention Minutes.

Provide a copy of the current voting roster to the Corresponding Secretary for use if roll call voting is required and to the Parliamentarian.

Provide the Election Committee Chairperson a roster of persons eligible to vote in the election not later than one hour prior to the opening of the polls.

Set up a card file system or spread sheet with the following headings:

National Officers

National Standing Committee Chairpersons

Past National Presidents (include the Immediate Past National President

Chapter Presidents

Captain of the Honor Guard

Member-at-Large Delegate Chairperson

Chapters by number and name

Members-at-Large

Receive from all chapters planning to attend their list of Chapter President or her representative and the elected delegates, alternates and proxies.

A list of delegate and alternate information including the number of delegates and alternates authorized based on given membership figures.

Convention Planning Handbook

Non-receipt of delegate, alternates & proxy list from chapters: If you have not received a list of delegates, alternates & proxies from a chapter by 15 July, at the latest, send a brief inquiry to the Chapter President stating you have not received their list and ask if their chapter will be represented at the Annual Convention. Give a deadline for your receipt of a response that should be no later than fifteen (15) days prior to the first day of the convention.

After the first of July, ask the National Treasurer for a list of all chapters with their membership figures as of 30 June. You need these figures to determine the number of delegates and alternates each chapter is entitled to.

Credentials Chairperson & Registration. The Credential Chairperson shall coordinate with the Registration Committee Chairperson the following:

Verify each member has been duly registered and issued the appropriate badge.

Maintain a current voting roster

Maintain registration statistics for the final reports

Set up a card file system or spread sheet with the following headings:

Name, address, chapter name and number or Member-at-Large

In what capacity the member will be serving

National Officer

Chapter President

Delegate

Alternate

Member

Etc.

If the registration fee is not included with the Registration Form DO NOT process the registration. Return the form to the member requesting submission of the fee with the registration form. THIS APPLIES TO EVERYONE WITH NO EXCEPTIONS.

Cross-reference Registration Forms with the delegate lists received from chapters making appropriate notations. Situations may arise causing changes in representation from the chapters. If you are well organized and have used the same filing sequence for all files it will simplify your task.

Forms are located in Section 15.

Credential Procedure for Business Meetings.

Board of Directors Meeting. For the Board of Directors meeting a table for the Credentials Chairperson and an assistant should be located just inside the room. Since the number attending the Board meeting is limited use just one door for entrance in to the room and checking attendance.

Convention Planning Handbook

The Credentials Chairperson checks off each person on the Roll Call Form. As quickly as possible total each category of members and use the Daily Credentials Report form to record totals.

Give the credentials report to the National President

The quorum for the Board of Directors is one-third (1/3) of its membership which includes all of the Board members, not just those present.

Business Meeting Two entrances should be available for the General Business Meeting. Place a table with at least two chairs just inside each entrance for use by the Credentials Committee. Have signs visible to the attendees indicating which door they are to enter. One door is used for National Officers (white badge) entry, the other for delegates or voting alternates (yellow or blue badges). If only one door is available set a table inside the room on each side of the entrance one side for National Officers the other side for Delegate and Alternates.

The Credentials Chairperson checks off each person on the Roll Call Form. As quickly as possible total each category of members and use the Daily Credentials Report form to record totals.

Coordinate requirements with the National Sergeant-at-Arms and Captain of the Honor Guard. They will be glad to assign Guards at the doors to help direct members as they check in. Guard members may also be used to direct people to where they will be seated.

Non Delegate Members and non-voting alternates are not allowed in the room until after all voting members are seated. They may sit only at the back of the room. Visitors are only allowed in the business meeting for the opening ceremony.

Voting members must check in at the Friday afternoon meeting, the Saturday morning meeting and the Sunday morning meeting. The Daily Credential Report must be completed and given at each meeting. Changes in the voting strength must be recorded each day. Copies of the report are given to the following people:

National Corresponding Secretary

National Parliamentarian

Election Committee Chairperson - Two (2) copies no later than 0800 hrs Sunday morning.

Final Credential Report: A copy of this form is located in Section 15. Late Sunday morning the National President will ask for the final credentials report. It is listed in the Order of Business/Agenda. This report includes all members who registered for the convention without regard to their voting status. The form is self-explanatory as to breakdown by categories. Distribution of the report is indicated on the form.

Voting Body: The voting body at the Annual Convention consists of members of the National Board of Directors, the duly accredited delegates or, in their absence, their alternates.

Quorum A quorum for the meeting of National Board of Directors is one third (1/3) of its voting membership.

Convention Planning Handbook

Representation. Representation at the Annual Convention is made of delegates from established Chapters and Members-at-Large.

If time permits put members desiring roommates in touch with each other and let them make the necessary arrangement.

Registration Packets. Packets normally consist of plastic bags or envelopes that are suitable for holding all of the necessary items. The Army Recruiting Center, Convention and Visitors Bureau, or Chamber of Commerce sometimes provides these containers. The packets will contain the following items:

Alternate – Blue

An Alternate is permitted for each delegate but chapters don't always have enough members attending to designate a full compliment of alternates. As with the Delegate badge and/or ribbon be sure to order enough.

Member – Green

This badge and/or ribbon is issued to all members, not in the above categories, who have paid the registration fee. You must estimate the number of Member badges and/or ribbons to request.

Honorary – Pink

This category is for Mothers (WAC mothers) of our members and Honorary Members. The numbers who attend conventions is limited, perhaps two or three each year. You will need to estimate the number of honorary badges and/or ribbons to request.

Hostess – Red

Hostess chapter members will wear a colored name badge with a border of red or two ribbons attached to their name badge. A hostess badge makes the wearer easily identifiable to the convention attendees. Request the number of Hostess badges and/or ribbons based on the participating chapter members.

Association membership figures for the current year and convention attendance for previous years should be reviewed when estimating badges required.

Honor Guard members, other than the Captain, will be issued badges appropriate to their attendance status, i.e.: delegate, member, etc.

Social Event Tickets. Social event tickets should be placed in an envelope and placed in the packet. As reservations come in envelopes must be prepared containing social event tickets for event that has been paid for. Print the following information on the outside of each envelope and place the appropriate tickets inside. Example:

Smith, Mary Jane	Chapter #67
1 Company Party
2 Pallas Athene Luncheon
1 President's Luncheon

Coordinate with the Convention Chairperson on the printing of tickets for each of the three social events. These can be printed in the spring so that you have them on hand when the reservations start to come in.

Double check to ensure each envelope is correct and then filed.

Convention Planning Handbook

All funds received for social events must be forwarded to the Convention Treasurer using Convention Committee Transmittal of Funds Form.

Registration Fees. The National Bylaws state that all MEMBERS attending any portion of the convention activities, business meeting and/or social events shall pay a registration fee. Section 8
Social Events, Hospitality Room & Tours

Social Events. All expenses involved with a dinner or luncheon are to be charged against the income for that meal. Such expenses include but are not limited to guest meals, entertainment, printing, decorations and any special audio or visual equipment required for that specific function.

In 1991 a policy was established to regulate the pricing of convention social event meals. The charge per meal may be rounded up to an even dollar amount but shall not exceed three dollars ($3.00) more than the amount that must be paid to the hotel for each meal.

The Registration Chairperson will receive the reservations for the Social Events. She will prepare envelopes with the correct number of tickets requested for each event. Coordinate your efforts with the Registration Chairperson.

For Social Event ticket procedure see Registration Section regarding Social Event Tickets.

Mistress of Ceremonies. The Convention Chair usually emcees the Pallas Athene Luncheon, a Co-Chair emcees the Company Party and the hostess chapter President emcees the President's Luncheon. These assignments are entirely up to the Convention Committee.

Reserved tables for all attendees see Table Assignment Procedures

No guest speaker or other invited guests may be seated at the head table for the President's Luncheon. This is an "in house" affair honoring Chapter Presidents and Past National Presidents, the installation of Officers and the close of the business meeting. Members of family and friends of members are invited to attend.

Table Assignment Procedure. Assigning tables allows those attending a function to enter at a leisurely pace and prevents a stampede at the door. Reserved seating is required at the Pallas Athene Luncheon and President's Luncheon. At the Company Party no reserved tables are necessary, but seating at tables is assigned.

A Table Reservation Sign Up Sheet Form can be found in the Forms Section. Do not hang these forms on the bulletin board or allow members to randomly sign up for tables. Assign one member of the committee to be located in the reservation area to handle table reservations.

When you know how many tables are required make up the Table Reservation Sign Up Sheets for all three social events. Write in the table numbers. In addition to the sign up sheet make a set of envelopes for each table with a numbered card for each seat that will be assigned. These cards could be about business card size and color coordinated with the meal tickets for the function.

Tell members when they pick up their social events tickets that they MUST sign up for a table for each event they will attend. They will need time to coordinate with friends before signing up for a table. In some instances one person might handle the signing for an entire table providing the name of each person she is signing up to the person on duty.

Assign seating by writing the name of the attendee on the form. Make sure you present them with the card showing the table number to which they have been assigned. If one person signs up for an entire table present that person with the envelope that contains all of the cards for that table.

Each person must present her table assignment card and ticket for the social event at the door when entering the banquet room.

If an attendee fails to sign up for a table they are to be held at the door until all others are in and seated. Then they will be allowed to find an empty seat.

National Honor Guard Escorting. The Convention Chairperson will have a list of all people to be seated at reserved tables. The Captain of the Guard will call the names and assemble the individuals in proper order.

All escorted members will gather at least fifteen minutes before the luncheon in the designated area. They will be announced by the Mistress of Ceremonies and escorted in as follows to their places at assigned reserved tables:

Chapter Presidents, in sequence by Chapter number (President's Luncheon only)

Past National Presidents in sequence by dates served (earliest to latest)

The newly elected incoming officers (President's Luncheon only)

WAC Mothers and their daughters to their places at assigned reserved tables.

Current National Officers:

Sergeant-at-Arms

Chaplain

Treasurer

Corresponding Secretary

Recording Secretary

2nd Vice President

1st Vice President

President

Table Decorations & Programs. This committee will need many members when the time comes to perform the work. The committee chairperson needs to work very closely with the convention chairperson. She should be involved in all decisions related to meals when planning for the choice of color scheme for linens, etc. Be sure to ask the hotel staff to allow you to work in the banquet room an hour before the scheduled meal for the placing of decorations and programs.

Table decorations may carry out the convention theme. The committee should decide on decorations for each event early and start working on them.

Programs (printed): Printed programs for each event are usual. Include the menu and a list of the dignitaries at the head table. Programs should carry out the convention theme.

Door Prizes Contact local merchants in an effort to obtain quality items for door prizes. Your chapter members may contribute too. Quality and not quantity is stressed in obtaining prizes. A sufficient number of prizes are equal to one per table. Friday night at the Company Party is a good time for door prizes. There are many clever ways to determine the winner: stickers on the table, chair or printed program, etc.

Drawings/Raffle Check with proper local and state agencies to insure there are no restrictions on the sale of merchandise and conducting raffles or drawings. There may be no restrictions, or there may be many. We must abide by the laws of the state in which the Annual Convention is held. As with door prizes contact local merchants and local chapter members to obtain items. A suggested value of $30.00 is recommended. Don't refuse any offer. The easiest method is to use double ticket rolls.

The person in charge of these events shall give a written report to the Convention Chair and Convention Treasurer with the total amounts of money received for each event.

Postal Restrictions Postal regulations prohibit mailing of raffle tickets and prohibit the mailing of any kind of printed material advertising a raffle. It is against postal regulations to send money through the mail for purchase of raffle tickets. It is also illegal to announce the names of winners of raffle drawings in printed material of any kind sent through the mail. DO NOT advertise a drawing or raffle in The Channel. As a Federally Chartered organization we are required to abide by the law.

Pallas Athene. The hostess chapter selects a member of the Association to portray Pallas Athene (also fondly referred to as "Minnie" for the Roman Goddess Minerva) at the Pallas Athene Luncheon.

The costume for Pallas Athene is passed from one convention to the next. If the dress does not fit properly it is up to the hostess chapter to obtain a new costume. The headpiece, spear and shield are forwarded to the succeeding convention chairperson. A new costume, or refurbishing the headpiece, spear and shield are legitimate convention expenses.

Pallas Athene addresses her "subjects" from the podium after making her entrance. Her speech does not have to be lengthy. Two (2) or three (3) minutes are adequate. The speech should include some "words of wisdom", not just a history of who she is, etc. Pallas Athene or chapter members are responsible for writing the speech. See examples in Section 14 of this handbook.

The entrance of Pallas Athene can be as simple or as dramatic as the hostess chapter wishes. It is the chapter's decision to have lights out, with a spotlight on her, trumpets or music, etc.

The nectar and ambrosia should be in a silver or gold goblet and bowl. These items are passed from one convention to the next. Dry ice should be placed in the goblet with enough water to make it steam and seem more mystic. Use a variety of fruit for the ambrosia. Make arrangements with the hotel for these items.

Four (4) uniformed Honor Guard members will be assigned by the Captain to attend Pallas Athene. Two are designated to carry the nectar and ambrosia; the other two will attend "Minnie" after her speech taking her spear and shield. The four Guards remain at the rear of the room near the door until "Minnie" calls from the podium for her nectar and ambrosia.

When the emcee observes that Pallas Athene is prepared to make her entrance it is suggested that she states: "Please remain seated and very quiet as we are about to receive a very special guest".

Convention Planning Handbook

Pallas Athene comes in slowly either directly down the center aisle or weaving in among the tables. Several minutes might be consumed in her walk from the rear of the banquet room to the podium.

On the platform and at the podium still carrying her spear and shield she delivers her speech. Some have committed their speeches to memory. A helpful hint is for her to tape her speech on the inside of her shield. That way even if she has memorized her speech she will have it handy.

When she has completed her speech she will state: "Now bring my nectar and ambrosia". Pallas will then move from the podium to her designated place at the end of the head table. She remains standing until the four Honor Guard move forward down the center aisle. Two approach Pallas Athene take her shield and spear from her and place them in an area near her, and step back. The two Honor Guards carrying the nectar and ambrosia then approach Pallas Athene and place the items on the table in front of her. Pallas Athene then declares "LET THE FEAST BEGIN!" The Honor Guard proceeds to their assigned table for the luncheon.

Hospitality Room. The Hospitality Room is a great place for people to sit and visit as well as enjoy refreshments. Members of the local chapter often donate food and drink items. Some items to consider are: breads, cheese, crackers, cookies, fruit, and coffee, tea and punch.

The Honor Guard must be up and about early on Sunday to prepare for the Memorial Day Service. They appreciate pastries and coffee or juice as they seldom get time for breakfast on this day.

A VCR is a nice addition to the Hospitality Room. It is a great place to share pertinent videos.

Try to have a bulletin board for those who would like to post messages for others.

Obtain church service information and post it on the bulletin board. Of interest to some members is the time and location of Catholic services late Saturday afternoon or early Saturday evening. They will also need information on how to best get to there. This is where transportation by chapter members might be very important.

Contact the National President and ask her means of transportation to the convention. If she is using public transportation make sure of the name of the carrier and date and time of arrival. Have Hospitality Committee arrange to meet her and transport her to the hotel.

Emergency Aid. Emergency assistance should be located in the Hospitality Room and coordinated with hostess chapter members assigned to that duty. This committee is NOT a medical unit, but can dispense aspirin, band-aids, etc. They should know what equipment is available in the hotel such as wheel chairs. They must also know where to take emergencies including dental.

All persons registering for the convention are required to complete the Emergency Information Form. This information should be separated from the registration form and kept in the Hospitality Room so it is available in case of an emergency. The Emergency Forms should be destroyed within thirty (30) days after the close of the convention.

Entertainment Committee. This committee is responsible for entertainment at the Company Party. Other entertainment that this committee might consider are local sightseeing tours. Family members and friends of convention attendees are free during the business meetings and appreciate having something available to do. Remember these tours would be restricted to family and friend of convention attendees only. Saturday is a free night where some form of entertainment could be offered. Suggestion: boat rides, dinner theater, local fun spots, outdoor barbeque, etc.

Tours. It is not a requirement to schedule tours, but you might have short local tours of a few hours, or a post convention tour of several days. Whatever the type, the price charged must be adequate to cover all expenses involved including printing and postage.

Do not schedule a trip that will conflict with a business meeting. The first meeting is the Board of Directors meeting, which is held on Thursday (of the convention week). The main concern is that nothing be scheduled to start late afternoon, which might push for early adjournment of the Board of Directors meeting. Special activities such as an evening mixer party would be acceptable.

Section 10 Documents and Printing

Printing. The Convention Chairperson will need to coordinate printing requirements with her committees. A Secretarial Committee responsible for printing, copying, or preparing documents is an excellent way to relieve the Chairperson of these responsibilities.

The following is a potential list: of items that may be requested by the National Officers and National Parliamentarian:

- Social event programs

- Memorial Service program (coordinate with National Chaplain)

- Credentials forms and reports

- Roster of attendees

- Ballots

Material for placement in the Registration Packets

- Rules of Convention - National Parliamentarian

- Proposed Amendments to the National Bylaws - National Parliamentarian

- Proposed Resolutions – Resolutions Chairperson

- Reports from Standing Committee Chairpersons

After nominations from the floor, at the Saturday morning business meeting, the Election Committee may require assistance in typing and reproducing ballots for the election of officers on Sunday.

At least one typewriter or computer with printer should be available for use by attendees serving in an official status, such as special committee that might be required to work up a report for presentation.

Booklet Committee. This committee is responsible for the preparation and distribution of a booklet consisting of the Social Schedule, Rules of Convention, and Agenda in an abbreviated form, and paid advertisements. It may also include letters from dignitaries and a page of recognition to thank all who donated goods, service, time and talent to the Association for the Annual Convention.

Advertisement may be sold to help defray the cost of the convention. Many chapters will purchase from a quarter (1/4) to a full page.

Contact the following to participate:

- Convention Chairperson for the next Annual Convention to advertise their convention.

Convention Planning Handbook

The Immediate past National President will contact all Past National Presidents about taking out an advertisement.

Have the hosting chapter members contact local merchants to take an advertisement.

Notify all Chapters by placing an advertisement in The Channel showing the size and cost of advertising in the Convention Booklet.

It is suggested that all advertising be placed at the back of the convention booklet after the Rules of the Convention and the Schedule and abbreviated form of the Agenda.

Pallas Athene Speeches (Examples only)

The following speech was written by Past National President Ethel Beck Aug. 1976 The theme of the 1976 convention was “Two Hundred Years of Women Who Served”.

Greetings from Mount Olympus!

Most of you, I'm sure, recognize me as Pallas Athene, the Greek goddess whose profile is the insignia of the Women's Army Corps and also the emblem of the WAC Veterans' Association. I personify feminine handicrafts, defensive warfare, wisdom and peace. WAC veterans often call me “Minnie”, from the Roman counterpart, Minerva, and I appear each year at their Annual Convention.

I, Pallas Athene, am happy that my 30th annual visit to the WAC Veterans' Association brings me once again to Florida, the state that is so highly favored by Apollo, the sun god. However, in recent times, the name “Apollo” seldom brings to mind a dazzling Greek god guiding his golden chariot through the heavens, bring sunlight to the world. Instead, Apollo now usually refers to the moon, or to the American spaceship, which made a joint flight with a Soviet craft last year.

Yes, times do change. Things have changed for Athena, too. My place as the patroness of the feminine arts of spinning and weaving fell into disuse long ago, and today the woman is rare indeed who spins and weaves in her home. As a matter of fact, even the terminology “feminine work” is disappearing. The traditional concept that woman's place is in the home is fading away as new horizons have opened up for her with a wide choice of occupations in both civilian life and military service. Opportunities for women in the Army have expanded greatly, and there are now more than 400 different jobs for WACs.

As the goddess of defense, I have observed with keen interest that WACs are now being trained in the use of weapons; however today's WAC is not the first of her sex to use military weapons. Two hundred years ago, “Molly Pitcher” replaced her husband when he collapsed at his cannon. Deborah Sampson masqueraded as a man so that she could fight as a Revolutionary soldier, and she was wounded twice before it was discovered that she was a woman. Women played an important role in the American Revolution and in other wars, but it wasn't until the 20th century that women gained military status.

Many of you present here today were among those who donned khaki uniforms to serve in the early days of the Women's Army Corps during World War II, and some of you have retired from the Corps. I, Pallas Athene, also expect to retire from the United States Army in a couple of years. As WACs are being permanently assigned to other branches of the Army, eventually the need will no longer exist for a separate Women's Army Corps. When the WAC is finally abolished, the WAC insignia with my profile will become as obsolete as the spinning wheel, and Pallas Athene will become a has-been as far as the Army is concerned. You who are now serving or have served under my aegis undoubtedly will look upon the phasing out of the WAC with a bit of sadness, and the Pallas Athene insignia will become in the future an even more cherished memento of your service days. Fortunately, because of your generous contributions, a new museum is being built at Fort McClellan, Alabama so that the many WAC treasures will not be lost. Nor will Pallas Athene be forgotten because my profile will continue to be the emblem of the WAC Veterans' Association.

I was chosen for the emblem of your organization not only because I personify defensive warfare, but also because I invented the olive branch, which is the symbol of peace. The preamble of your Association's constitution states that it is your purpose to promote peace. Everyone seems to want peace. But what is peace? Is it the absence of active warfare? Is it living together harmoniously? How is peace attained? First of all, peace does not begin with international units, nor does it begin with individuals, and it has a lot to do with love. I'm not referring to the emotional and sentimental attachment between two individuals, but to love in a much larger sense...love as an attitude of caring, of concern for people...the kind of love which extends beyond one's own small circle of friends and encompasses everyone, including those whose looks are not appealing, those whose personalities are not charming, those whose viewpoints are different, and those whose actions are displeasing. I'm speaking of a mature love that is shown by honest behavior, objectivity, and a willingness to examine facts, regardless of who may turn out to be right or wrong, and even when the truth may not be to one's own advantage or liking. Honesty, fairness, and kindness in dealing with those persons with whom one feels no special bond are better measurers of one's own love for humanity than is affection shown to family and friends.

Love fosters honesty; honesty promotes fairness and justice, and when the dream of justice for all is realized, there will be peace on earth.

Patricia Rathbone wrote the following speech in 1979. The theme was "A Tri-Cultural Experience" based on the Indians, Spanish/Hispanic and Anglo cultures of New Mexico.

I Pallas Athene, bring you greetings from Mount Olympus.

Though my likeness will no longer be worn by women active in the service of their country, this group of veterans will never forget me as goddess of war and wisdom and as protectress of women. After thirty-six years of being set apart, women in your Army have achieved the same status as the men they work beside. Though my image is no longer visible among them, my spirit will always be with them.

This year I am privileged to visit you in this wonderful Land of Enchantment, where atomic energy was developed and where today friendlier solar energy is being explored. Where balloons fill the skies, rising to record altitudes, spanning record distances, floating between continents - Apollo's chariot was never so elegant!

And long before Coronado searched in vain for seven cities of gold, Indians cultivated corn and squash in their pueblos, making pottery and performing their ancient ceremonial rituals. Today, these cultures have mingled, each contributing to the whole while retaining their individual flavors.

No one would insist that the deserts, mountains, mesas and caverns meld into a single prairie. Each has its own merits and is more appreciated for its contrast with another. Thus, I urge you to see that the lumps remaining in your cultural melting pot are never forced to be absorbed into one mass, so that there remains variety, truly the spice of your lives. Now, bring my Nectar and Ambrosia. LET THE FEAST BEGIN!

Barbara Albret wrote the following speech in 1994.

Convention Planning Handbook

Greetings Dear Earthlings!

Once again I descend from Mount Olympus to join you in your celebration the 48th Anniversary of the Women's Army Corps Veterans' Association.

This is my third visit to the Boston area for which I feel special affinity. Many of you know Boston as "Beantown", or the "Hub", or "The Cradle of Liberty." But do you know that the Boston area has also been called "The Athens of America?" Think of its great halls of learning, its renowned medical facilities, its famous museums, its achievements in Science, Law and the Arts, all these had their roots, as only in ideas, in my ancient Athens. Now you understand my special pleasure in being here with you today.

Some of you proudly wore my insignia as members of the WAAC in the early days of World War II. Many more of you have worn it as members of the WAC in World War II, in the Korean and Vietnam Wars, and in times of peace. True, not long after the Vietnam War, my insignia was retired but not my spirit. For all who have served, or are serving, in these years since 1978, including the Persian Gulf, I am you Heritage.

Originally you chose me as your symbolic leader because I am the Goddess of War and Victory. But, remember, Pallas Athene is multi-talented. I am the Patron of the Arts, the Protector of the Home. When you see me depicted with an owl by my side, you remember I am the Goddess of Wisdom. And when you see me pictured with an olive branch, you know I am also the Goddess of Peace.

And you, you are my Valiant Women. Despite criticism and even hardship, you dared to take up my shield. And because you dared to be different, you have made a difference. You have cared for your Country and Countrymen. You have served your Nation well.

Today, I join you to awaken the chords of memory that bind us together. Listen to them. Continue to make a difference. Be of service to your community, your country. And never forget you brother and sister veterans. Until we meet again, remember that I symbolize the bond between your pride in the past and your hope for the future.

AND NOW, BRING ME MY NECTAR AND AMBROSIA! LET THE FEAST BEGIN!
